Dear “Student”,

We hope that your semester is wrapping up well. We are reaching out to share important information and updates regarding your academic standing at UConn.

Why am I getting this email?
All students who had a probationary semester in Fall 2020 are receiving this notification so that you are informed about UConn’s upcoming Scholastic Standing process, important deadlines and information, and the supports available to you at this time.

Academic Standing Information
- Each semester, the University reviews the records of all undergraduate students to identify their academic standing. Your academic standing will be reviewed after Fall 2020 grades are posted. You may look at your transcript in order to check your updated standing; it will be listed at the bottom of your Fall 2020 grades.
- “Subject to Dismissal” Standing: Students who are on probation for two consecutive semesters, not including summer and winter intersession, will be subject to dismissal. However, a student who earns a semester GPA of at least 2.3, even if their cumulative GPA is less than 2.0, will not be subject to dismissal, but will remain on probation in Spring 2021.

What can I expect in the next few weeks?
All students who had a probationary semester will be notified of their updated standing in late December. If your status is changed to “Subject to Dismissal,” you will be contacted by email no later than Thursday, December 31, 2020. This email will provide you with information on the academic dismissal appeal process.

What can I do to prepare in case I am subject to dismissal?
If you believe you may be subject to dismissal, you can begin preparing your appeal now. We always encourage students to participate in the appeal process, and we particularly encourage you to be in touch during these challenging and stressful times.

This should involve:
- Speaking with an advisor in your school or college advising or student services center.
- Preparing written statements about the challenges you encountered this semester and the strategies you used to address them
- Collecting documentation to support your appeal.

Where can I find help in navigating this process?
- Contact your academic advisor.
- The Storrs DOS Office or regional campus Office of Student Services is here to support you during this time. We strongly encourage you to reach out to them at any time for academic or personal assistance. Storrs students can contact the DOS by emailing dos@uconn.edu or through NEXUS to make an appointment. Regional students should contact their Office of Student Services.

- The Academic Achievement Center is a great resource and can connect you with virtual or in-person support in preparing your appeal.

- The Dismissal Process Guidelines webpage contains detailed policies and information on the dismissal appeal process.

- Please email us at advising@uconn.edu if you have any remaining questions but don’t know who to contact.

Sincerely,
Office of University Advising
